

“BUSKING” PROJECT INSPIRATION

The impetus for this project ensued following a significant amount of dialogue, discussion and reflection that focused on the inclusive music classroom. As I reflected on inclusion and what it actually looks like in my classroom context, it became very important for me increase the opportunities for student voice through the use of musical materials that are culturally relevant to the students themselves.